

LIBRARIANS • ARCHIVISTS • MUSEUM PROFESSIONALS • SCIENTISTS • HISTORIANS

50
years of IAMPHHS

IN THE HISTORY OF THE HEALTH SCIENCES

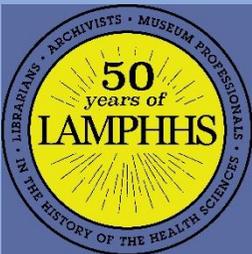

2002

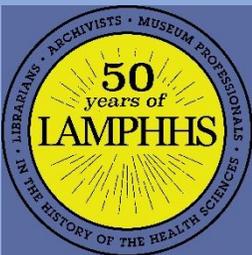

2023

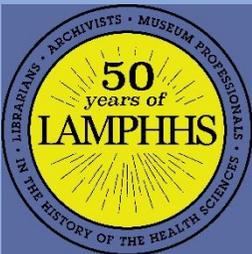

2002

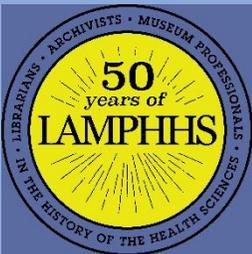

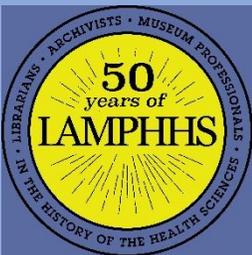

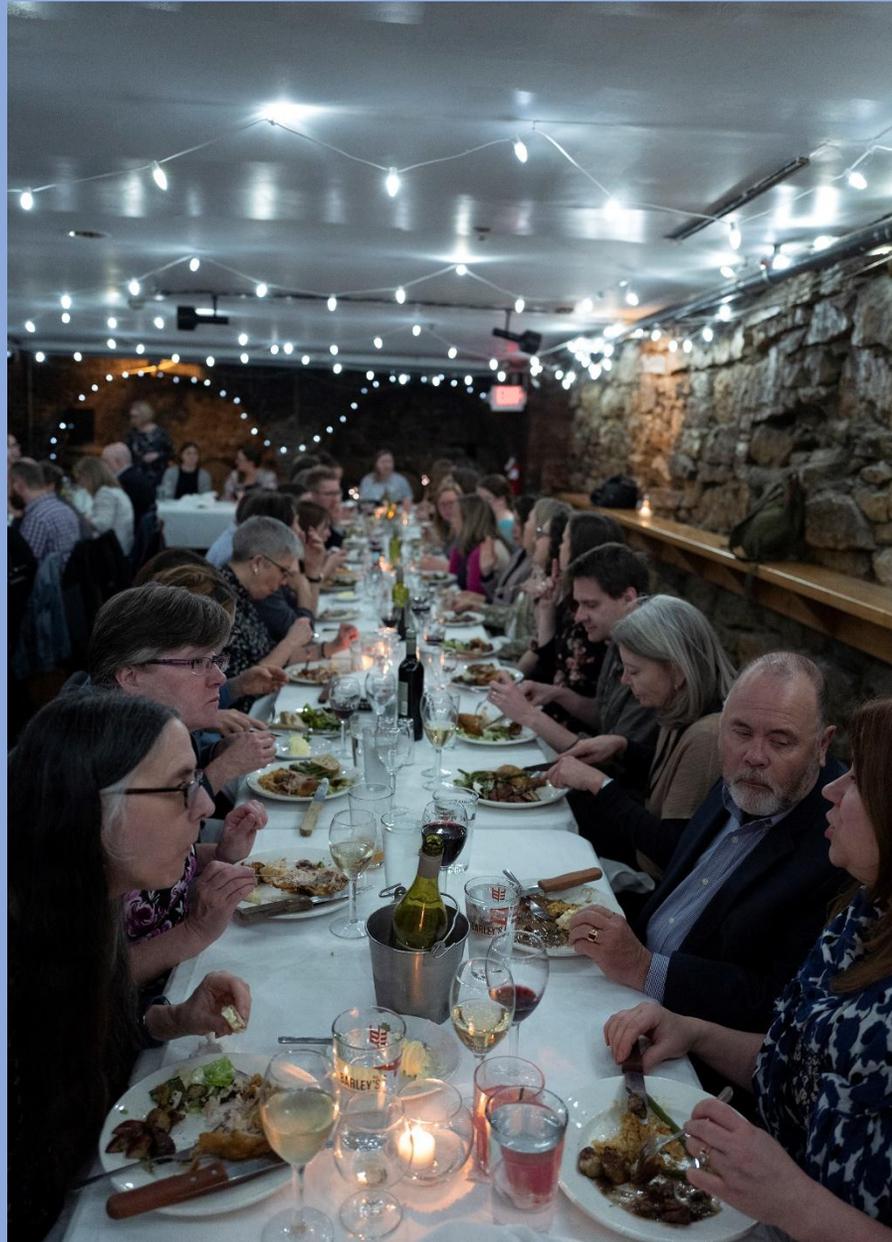

2022

2002

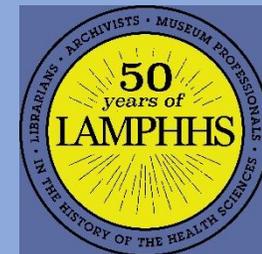

2019

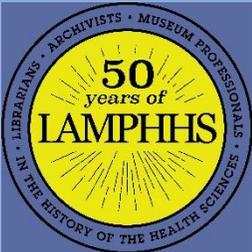

1999

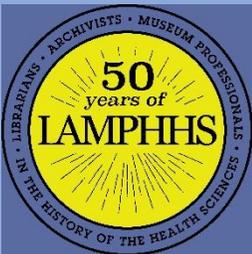

2011

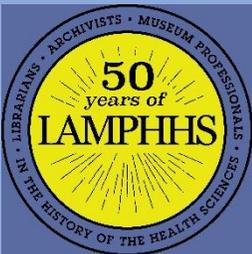

2009

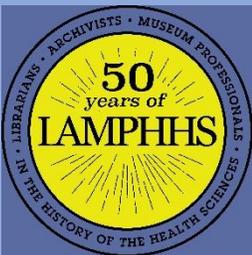

2013

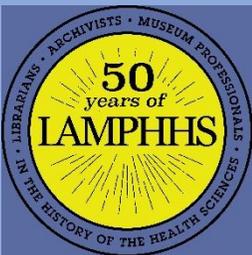

2017

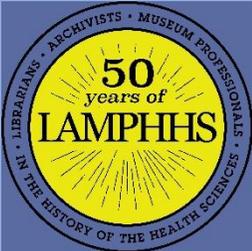

2018

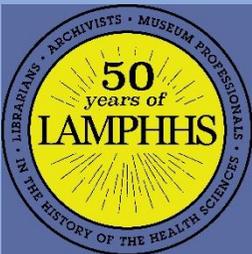

2005

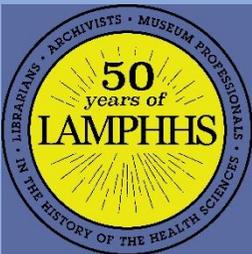

2004

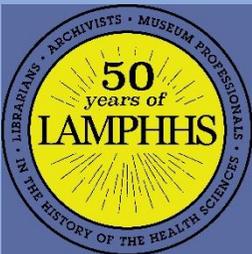

2017

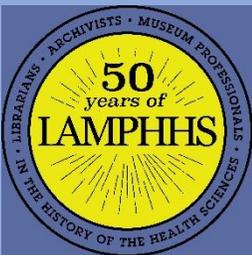

2015

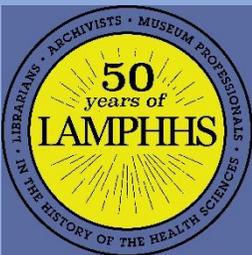

2015

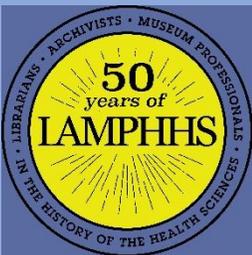

2023

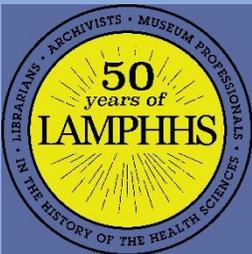

Susan K. Rishworth:

Having been a lone arranger for my entire career in archives, both at ACOG and ACS [from] 1990 to 2013, I was quite overwhelmed with the kindness, friendliness and helpfulness of the archivists and librarians I met at the annual meetings of what in those days was ALHHS. Not only did I learn so much from the meetings, and got new ideas about things I could initiate at my institutions, I began to make friends with people I loved seeing every year.

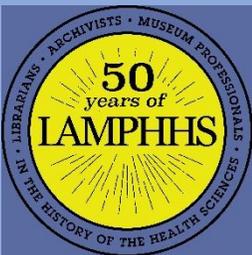

2015

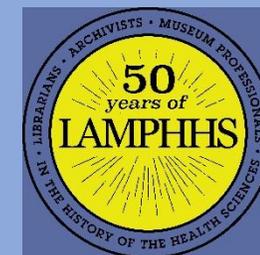

2015

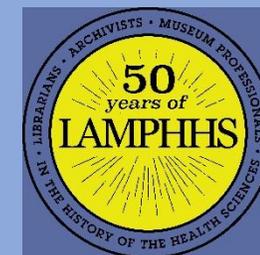

2016

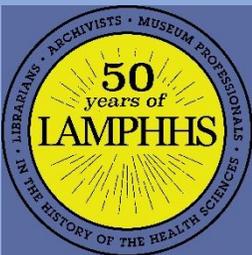

2024

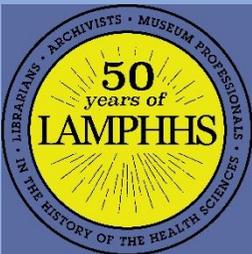

2016

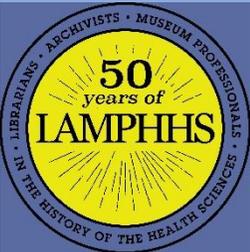

2016

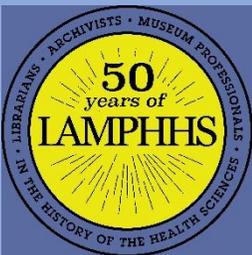

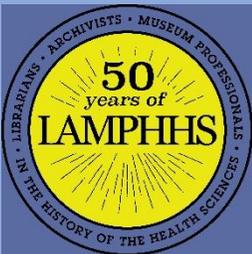

2017

2015

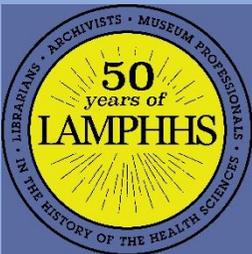

2017

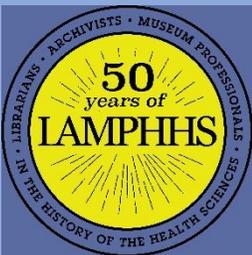

2019

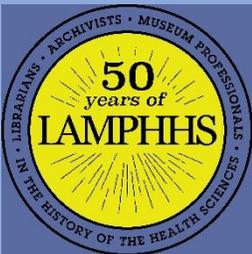

2017

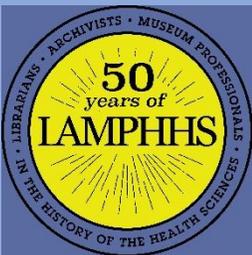

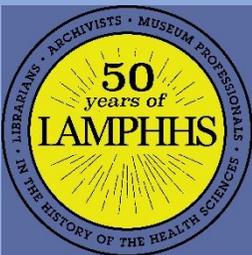

2017

2015

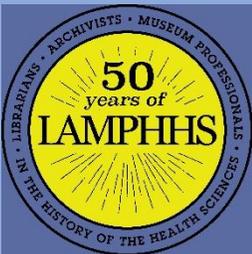

2017

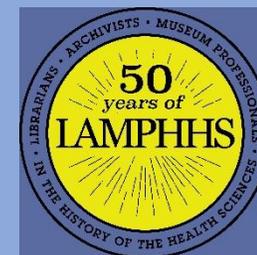

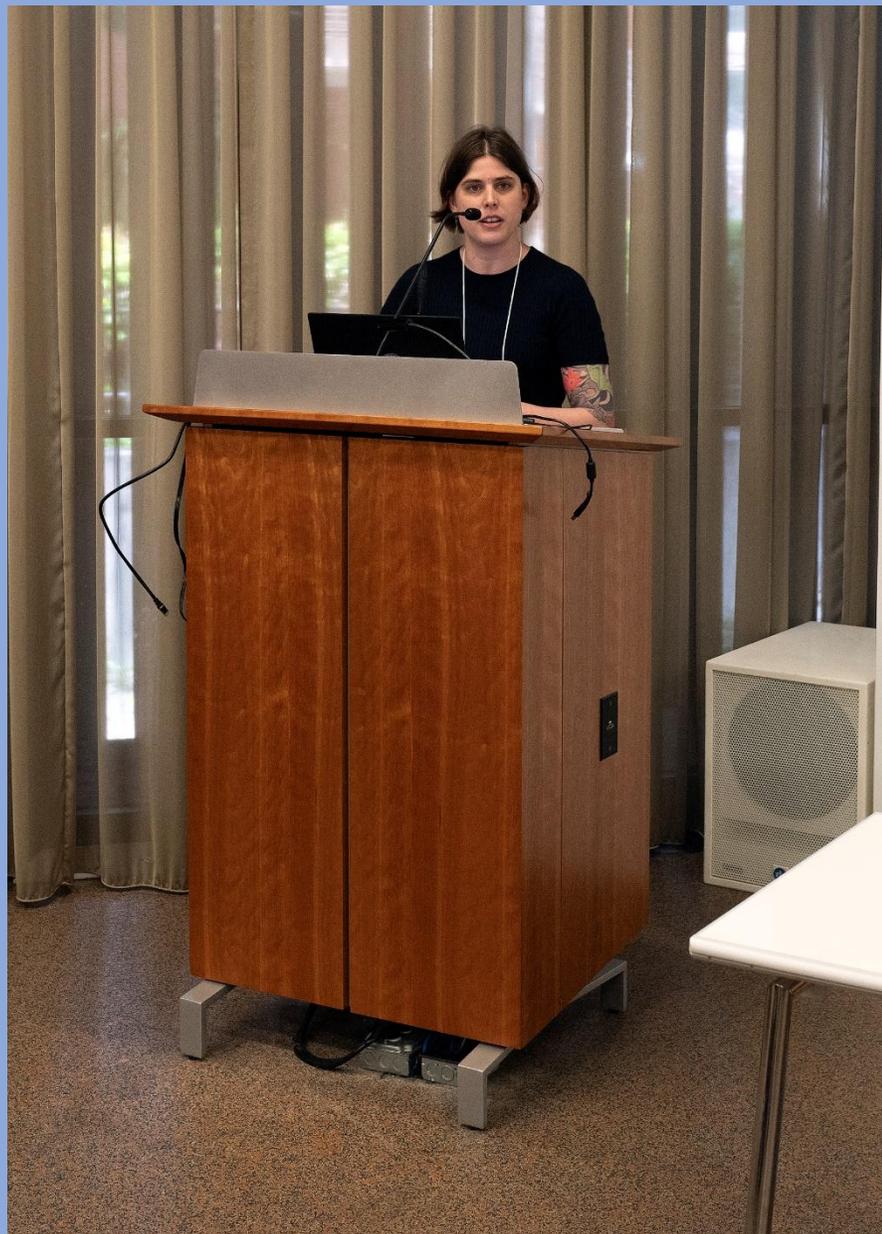

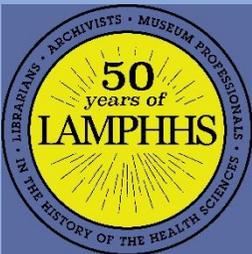

2018

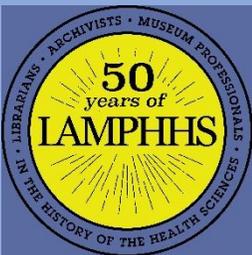

2018

2017

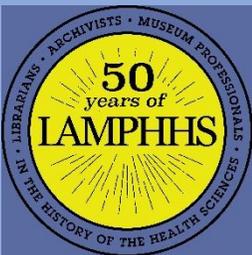

2018

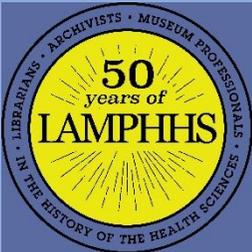

2018

2019

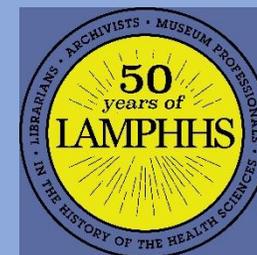

Sarah Alger:

At my first MeMA meeting—Yale, 2015—leadership was seeking the next VP. A colleague practically dove under the table to escape the eyes scanning the crowd for fresh blood. The naïve embodiment of the saying “A volunteer is someone who doesn’t understand the question,” I volunteered. Judy Chelnick’s head, with her trademark bob, snapped around. “Good girrrrrrl,” she purred.

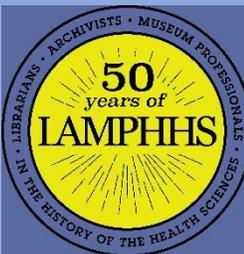

Steve Greenberg:

My first ALHHS meeting – NYC , 1993 – Inci Bowman introduced me at a panel discussion as “the smiling public face of NLM.” I spent the better part of the next three decades trying to live up to that.

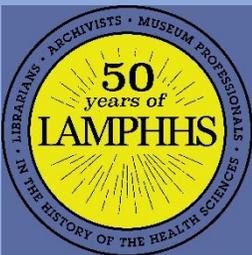

2019

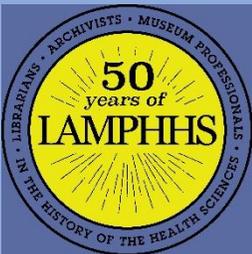

2019

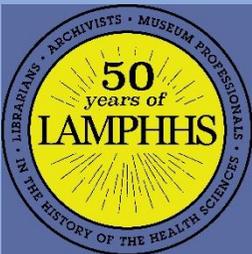

2015

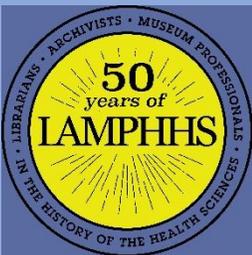

2023

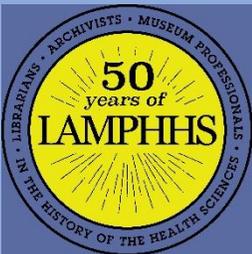

2015

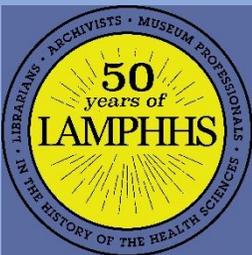

2002

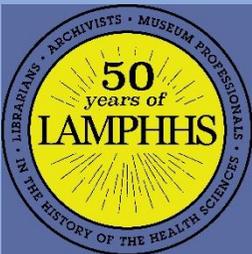

2005

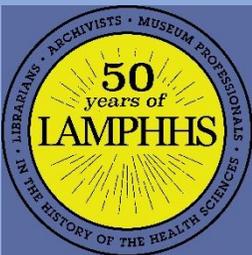

2023

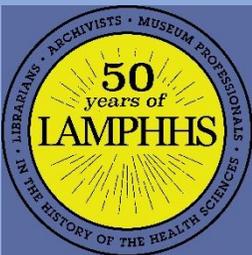

2022

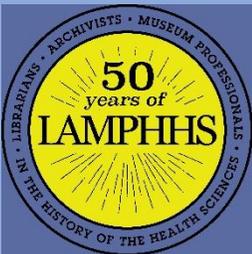

2011

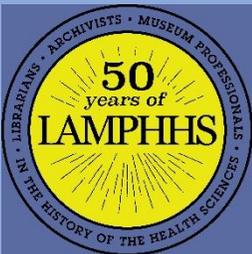

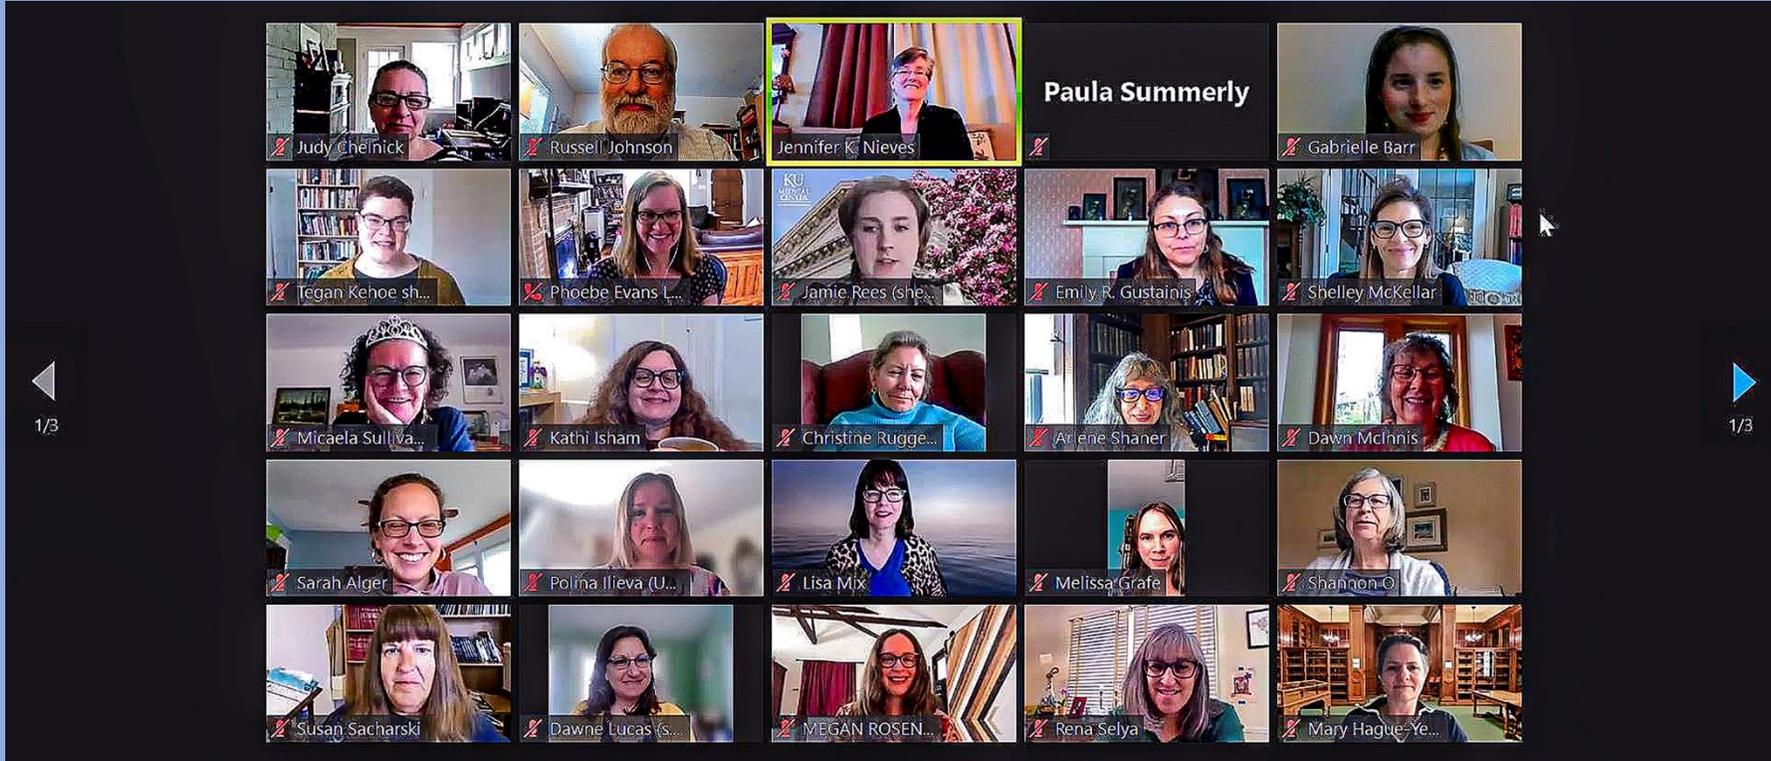

2009

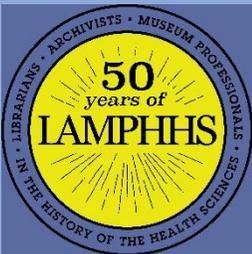

2009

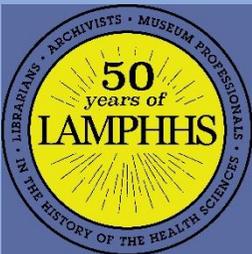

2021

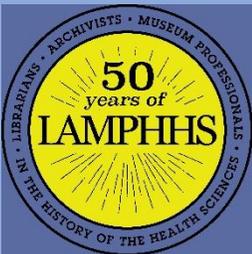

2010

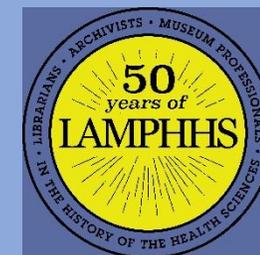

2017

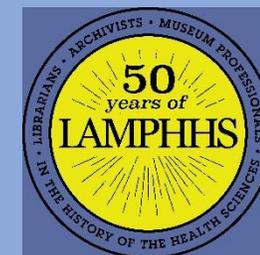

2015

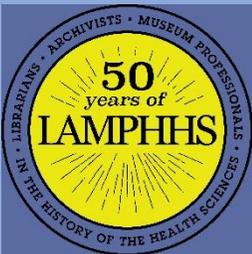

2010

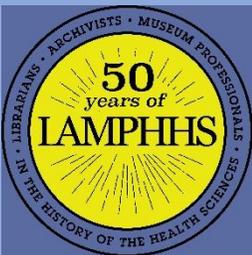

2013

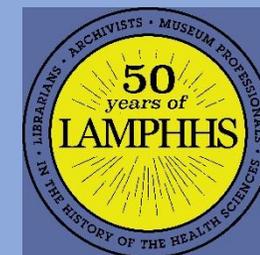

2013

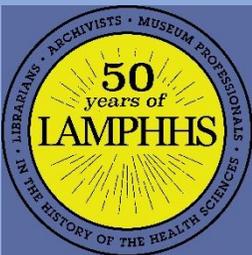

2013

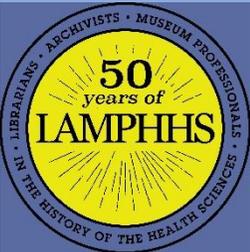

2024

2018

Pictures by Brooke Fox, Jessica
Johnson, Jodi Koste, Shelly
McKellar, Tim Pennycuff, and Steve Greenberg

